SCHLADMINGDACHSTEIN

DACHSTEIN GLACIER

The highest destination in Styria

3,000 metres of freedom!

The Dachstein is one of the most visited destinations in Styria. And no wonder - it's the first Alpine glacier you encounter coming from the east. Even the approach on the Dachstein Glacier Lift is an experience: you rise 1,000 metres in altitude and pass a mere hair's breadth from steep rock faces. On the Dachstein at 2,700 metres above sea level, you are able to view a fantastic panorama of hundreds of mountain summits. You can also enjoy virtual panoramic views here:

New panorama gondola lift on the Dachstein

Travelling up the mountain is a completely unique experience in the new glass gondola lift with a roof-top balcony.

Sky Walk

Thrilling - but safe! Under your feet: the Hunerkogel rock face dropping away 250 metres straight down. All around you: an unrivalled mountain panorama.

Dachstein Ice Palace

A visit to the Dachstein Ice Palace leads you deep into the interior of the Dachstein glacier. Dive into a fascinating world of ice, light, and sound.

Suspension bridge and „stairway to nothingness“

The 100 metres-long suspension bridge alongside the south wall of the Dachstein glacier offers a spectacular view of Austria's Alpine peaks extending.

In earlier times, hand sleds were used for the transport of wood or hay.

After having enjoyed an exhilarating ride down into the valley one day, the idea of "hand-sledding at the Schaupphof" was born. In winter 1995/96, this fun opportunity, which started out with just five specially made hand sleds, was included in the vacation program of Donnersbachwald for the very first time, and enjoyed immediate success.

Groups, in particular, love to plan in hand-sled rides as an evening activity or side program.

It served as an acute-care hospital, old people's home, nursing home, as well as a care facility for widows and orphans.

Guided Tour of Schladming

In the Middle Ages, mining for silver, zinc and other ores was flourishing. Thousands of miners and mine owners were unearthing the riches of the Tauern mountains. In 1322, Schladming was given the imperial town charter. The town gate and the remains of the town wall date from this time. The air of history still wafts through the old lanes and squares. Today, street cafes, shopping promenades, restaurants and bars blend with the historical ambience of the dignified homes of bygone days.

Special exhibition 2015:
 The Forest and Humans a History in 100 Stations

The geological and historical development of the forest and its use by the people are the central themes of the exhibition. The forest was created in the course of thousands of years and has been repeatedly altered by various human cultural achievements.

Using selected objects the exhibition shows how the view of the forest is constantly changing and how it might look in the future. Based on the geological ages the exhibition unravels a dense network of narratives around the forest: it outlines its functions and depicts the impact of humans on the appearance of the forest, the power of the forest and its use by the people – the exhibition also examines the myth of the natural, wild and restricting properties of the forest.
